elmoallistair@ubuntu:~
> cat pert6.java
import java.util.Scanner;
public class minggu_6 {

    public static void main(String[] args){
        String origin, result = "";
        System.out.print("Input a string: ");

        Scanner input = new Scanner(System.in);
        origin = input.nextLine();
        for (int i = origin.length()-1 ; i >= 0 ; i--) {
            result += origin.charAt(i);
        }

        System.out.println("Result: " + result);
    }
}
```

```
> java pert6.java
Input a string: ELMO ALLISTAIR
Result: RIATSILLA OMLE
